

ACCREDITATION PATHWAYS

DEAKINPRIME BELIEVES IN PROFESSIONAL AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT THROUGH EDUCATION.

Deakin University's accredited pathways give organisations the opportunity to advance talented and motivated employees, providing a clear route for progressing from entry-level vocational programs and industry education programs through to a masters qualification.

DeakinPrime has experience in developing accredited pathways for a variety of industries, each with their own industry-specific training and requirements.

DEAKIN UNIVERSITY'S ACCREDITED PATHWAYS

WHY DEAKINPRIME?

We work closely with clients to develop learning pathways that include a range of management topics relevant to their organisation and industry. From an employee's perspective, they can clearly identify the education required to advance their career.

Our learning pathways also allow employees to take single units from within the awards to suit shorter-term business requirements. This means that employees can undertake just-in-time learning as needed in the short term, which can also be accredited towards formal educational qualifications.

Many of Deakin's programs are flexible in duration and have multiple entry and exit points. Nested awards do not necessarily include core or compulsory units from target awards. However, careful selection from the available units will enable employees to maximise their credits as they progress along their learning pathway.
